Training and Capacity Building

Capacity Building has become an important aspect of institutions and organisations, government departments, think tanks, NGOs, corporates and academic institutions of governance & public policy. In order to respond to this, PAF offers several customised training programmes to suit audience needs.

The training programmes and workshops will help the participants:

- Acquire actionable skills and knowledge
- Understand and develop concepts through sharing of experiences, and develop paradigms through peer-to-peer collaboration and case studies
- Apply learning through exercises

Networking and Building Partnerships

Strategic alliances and collaborations improve outcomes. Joint initiatives are often more effective than individual ones. Public Affairs Foundation provides a platform for cross-pollination of ideas, help create frameworks for a cohesive ecosystem and steer meaningful partnerships. It works closely with several organisations to include Public Affairs Centre (PAC).
